

Gore Mutual Insurance Company becomes Gore Insurance Company

On January 1, 2026, as part of our transition to the Beneva brand, Gore Mutual Insurance Company became Gore Insurance Company.

This name change does not affect your coverage or any claims you have in progress, and you do not need to take any action.

Our documentation will gradually be updated, so it is possible that your annual statements or other documents related to your contract may, for some time, still display the name of Gore Mutual Insurance Company.

All documentation related to your insurance policy (including, without limitation, any consent forms or pre-authorized debit agreements) must be read by replacing the name Gore Mutual Insurance Company with Gore Insurance Company.

You don't need to do anything right now. In the coming months, you may receive updated documents to reflect this temporary name change. Your insurance contract stays the same, your coverage remains unchanged, and the same dedicated team is here for you.
